

DECLARATION ON THE EU MARKET

The EC Declaration of Conformity is an official statement by the manufacturer or his authorized representative in the EU that the product for which it is issued complies with EU requirements.

The declaration of conformity of the CE is mandatory in cases where the product is subject to EU Directives defining the rules for affixing the CE mark.

The CE Declaration of Conformity is drawn up and signed by the manufacturer if he is in the EU. If the manufacturer is not in the European Union, he has no right to issue a declaration.

The manufacturer must appoint an authorized representative in the EU, making him responsible for issuing the Declaration of Conformity.

The declaration of conformity of the CE must contain the following mandatory information:

- ❖ name of the manufacturer and / or representative in the EU, contact details;
- ❖ name of the product for which the declaration is made;
- ❖ standards and legislation that apply to products;
- ❖ test reports;
- ❖ date, place, and person who signed the declaration.

The declaration of conformity of the CE should be made in English. However, it should be borne in mind that an EU member state may request a translation into the official language of such a country when placing products on the market.

We are ready to explain to you all the intricacies of the Declaration of Conformity.
